WK Tip of the Month

One of the most crucial parts of HVAC maintenance is cleaning or replacing the air filters. Over time, these filters clog with dirt, dust, and other debris, causing the HVAC unit to work harder than it should. This extra workload puts undue stress on the system and can lead to costly repairs or even replacement down the road. By cleaning or replacing air filters in the Spring, you ensure that your system is running efficiently and effectively throughout the rest of the year.

You can't put a price on peace of mind. AC maintenance is definitely an important task you want to make sure you take care of. But when you do check it off each year, you can breathe easy knowing that your air conditioner is less likely to face unexpected repairs for the coming year. Let the team at WK Mechanical make sure you have the best and most comfortable Summer!
